

TECHNIQUE

The technique that I call my artwork is “digitally manipulated photography”. Each piece consists of four images that are personally shot and then blended digitally on the computer. The latest ones are done in themes. For example, “Wonderland” is four different pictures of local desert flowers. Each piece is then output onto metal, though other surfaces have been used as well.